citing game from the Brooklyns yesterday fternoon, and at its conclusion the crowd mobbed Umpires Emails and Dwyer. As the Philadelphias were beaten by the Washingtons, the Superbas still lead the race by 71 oints, while the Bostons are only 1 point behind the Quakers. The Baltimores, who are coming fast again, whitewashed the New Yorks, and are 27 points behinds the cham-pions. The Cincinnatis outplayed St. Louis and took a firmer hold on fifth place, while the Chicagos defeated the Clevelands and again tied Pittburg for seventh place, the latter team losing to the Louisvilles. BOSTON, 2; BROOKLYN, 1.

Never before in the history of baseball in Brooklyn has such a riotous demonstration by spectators been seen as that which wound up yesterday's battle between the Superbas and the Bestons at Washington Park. Two close isions by Umpires Emalle and Dwyer were the direct cause for an outburst of violence and isorder, which, but for the timely interference of President Ebbets and the police might have resulted in an ambulance call. For seven inings the game was one of the most exciting of the season. The score stood 1 to 0 in favor of the Brooklyns and that run had been fairly made in the first inning on Jones's base on balls. Keeler's sacrifice and a timely hit to right field by Anderson. From that point up to the eighth both Willis and Kennedy pitched magnificent bail. They were supported in the most approved style, stirring plays by Jennings. Dahlen, Daly, Hamilton, Long and Lowe being of material assistance in chalking to the ware.

When the Bostons went to the bat for the first half of the eighth inning, the crowd of more than 0,000 persons had been worked up to white heat. The first Boston batter was Bergen and Kennedy showed rather poor judgment in sending him to first on balls. Willis, however, struck out and Stahl, who is about the best batter the champions have nowadays, lined a solid base hit to centre field. Bergen took third base on the drive and with Tenney at the plate the crowd became anxious. Suddenly, McGuire with a quick accurate throw to Casey apparently caught Bergen off third by at least a yard. Assistant Umsire Dwyer, who was standing back of first base where it was rather difficult for him to see the play distinctly, declared Bergen safs. The ruling immediately caused a tremendous outburst of disapproval from the crowd, but the Brooklyn players remained from any demonstration of violence. One or two of them protested to Dwyer from their positions but desisted almost immediately. The spectators, however, kept up a constant cry of "Robber." "Thief" and other remarks which have been heard before under similar circumstances, until Dwyer was visibly confused.

Tenny a moment later cracked a hard shet at Dahlen who, harled the ball to McGuipe so add third. pulling down the curtains so that the mob could not see the objects of their wrath. Ems-lie and Dwyer dressed hurriedly. The crowd meanwhile waited outside the main entrance, howling for vengeance. As the umpires came out of their dressing rooms President Ebbets

"If you men want protection, say so now and I will provide it."
"We don't want any protection," replied Emails, "we can take care of ourselves."
"You are werse than the crowd," said Dwyer to Ebbets. "What are you making all this fuss about?"

Emails. "we can take care of ourselves."

"You are were than the crowd." said Dwyer to Ebbets. "What are you making all this luss about?"

Tou have nobody to blame but yourselves," retorted the club's President. "You made two sawful decisions here to day, and these people who paid their money to see the game played on, its merits are uncontrollable."

"Well. we'll take care of curselves, anyway."

Well. we'll take care of curselves, anyway."

Out of the main entrance the umpires proceeded without delay. As soon as they made their appearance they were literally mobbed. They were hemmed in so that they could not make headway, and several hot-headed individuals tried to punch them anywhere they could. Ebbets, who saw this from the office window, hurried below and, calling several policemen to his assistance, they fought their way to the side of the umpires. All the way up Third street to the elevated station, the mob struggled to get hold of the two men until the police finally had to draw their clubs and fight a massageway for Emsile and Dwyer to meunt the stairs. On the platform were fifty or more men waiting for the umpires, while at Union street, the station below, there were others. All the way to the Bridge Emsile and Dwyer were threatened with bodily harm, but they were protected by several Central Office men and a number of cool headed citizens. Emsile said to The Sun man:

"I called Daly out because he did not touch the plates. It was as I saw it and I was perfectly honest in my judgement."

Dwyer said the same about the play at third base. Hanlon declared that both of the decisions were unfair, while several eff the Boston players said that the ruling at the plate was close." President Ebbets received unsatinted praise for his efforts to protect the judges of play and quell the disorder. He said leat night that the Brooklyn Club had po idea of protesting the game and that if Emsile and Dwyer officiale again in Washington Park they will be amply protected: Score:

The oalookers only numbered about 250 but it is surprising that even so many persons are willing to see games which are more apt than not to be one-sided affairs in which as a rule the visiting players play their best until their lead is so big that they cannot help loafing during balf or mere of the game. It is reported that Davis is in condition to play but has refused to put on a uniform, and to make matters worse, Gleason was not on hand yesterday. Manager Heey said that the Rid had a sore thumb. Stewart, late with the Hartford slub, was tried at second base but failed to show any speed, Garoni, who before the season was termed a world beater and then farmed out without being tried in a League game, replaced Gettig in the eighth inning, but he did nothing to show that he would ever be able to win a League game. Only one of the New Yerk players got as far as third base, Kitsen holding the locals down to four hits, of which two were seratches. The BALTIMORE. 10; NEW YORK. O.

Sr. Louis, Sept. 7.—Oincinnati won to-day's game by a score of 4 to 2. Jack Powell twirled for the home team, while Hahn performed like services for the visitors. It was a pitchers battle. Latham unnired behind the plate. In the eighth he called Donlin out on strikes, precipitating a row which suded by his ordering the Californian to the bench. In the last half of of the ninth, Burkett sent a high drive to centre. McBride ran forward to get it. Gaffrey who covered homes vulne that he had picked the drive to centre. McBrine ran forward to gett. Gan-ney, who covered bases rule; it hat he had picked the bell off the ground. Latham overruled him and ordered Burkett out. In a moment there was a lively row in which the St. Louis nine generally par-ticipated. When the game was called the field was invasied from the bleachers and Latham buffetsd around in a lively manner. Folice protection is all that saved him from being mobbed. Attendance, 2,000. In rule 11, referring to the ball when "dead," the explanatory note has been changed to read:
Should the ball strike an official it is not regarded as dead, but play continues exactly as if the ball had not touched him.

The original note was ambiguous and caused trouble in some of the schools. Rule 28, covering penalties for fouls and offside play, has been pretty thoroughly overhauled. Section E has been made to read as follows:

TARES THE RICH SEPTEMBER STAKES IN AN OPEN GALLOP.

Isidor and King Barleycorn Also Score Very Enzy Victories at Sheepshond Bay-Misericordia, at 100 to 1, Beaten a Head by Col. Bossevelt for The Golden Bod. Racing has rarely been presented in a more attractive setting than that which helped to make yesterday's outlag at Sheepshead Bay one of the pleasantest of the season. The programme presented would have justified a better attendance but the regulars have been so hard hit since Futurity day that they are doubtless laying low for a swoop on the layers before the meeting closes to-morrow. Keen followers of the game who made their way to the roof to watch the first race down the chute yesterday brought back the news that a splendid view could be had of the challeaging yacht Shamrock manœuvring in the vicinity of Manhattan Beach. This was the signal for general scramble to the lofty point of vantage and it at once became evident that horse racing will find a formidable rival in the coming oup contests off Sandy Hook.

The explorers returned to their seats in time to figure out the possibilities for the September Stakes, one of the oldest and richber Stakes, one of the oldest and richest fixtures on the autumn card at the Bay. Only four candidates essayed the severe journey of one mile and three furlongs, and of these Batten was played to odds on with Kirkwood a strong second choice. The talent anticipated the result accurately, as Batten made a runaway race of it, while Kirkwood took the place, ten lengths behind the winner and three clear of MacLeod of Dare. Although Batten was not forced beyond an open gallep in the last furlong he finished within fourfiths of a second of the track record, made by Nanki Pooh, with 108 pounds up, in 1886.

This stake was preceded by the Golden Rod, for two-year-olds over the six and a half furlong turf course. Eight clever youngsters were originally named to go, and when Marous Daiy's Inishfree was withdrawn H. T. Griffin stepped inte the gap with Knight Banners. John E. Madden's Spendthrift colt Guiden opened favorite, but Col. Roosevelt was in stronger demand and this pair went to the post on equal terms. Both finished in the money, the State Gevernor's namesake taking the honors, with Guiden in third position. The place was captured by Misericordia, in the "all accriet" of the Morris brothers; with a stable boy on her back and 100 to 1 quoted against her chances in the ring. It was a sensational finish with all the front division driving in a bunch through the long stretch. At the end the three chief contenders were only heads apart. There were complaints of crowding, but after a long investigation the numbers were allowed to stand as originally hung out. Col. Roosevelt's time was within a bare fraction of the course record made by Easter Gift. with 110 pounds up, in the same race, two years ago.

John J. McCafferty added another scalp to his belt by capturing the first race on the card with his Florist filly Cleora, backed down to almost equal terms with the favorite. the fourth day of the meeting, and interest was at fever heat from the time the ranges were opened in the morning until they were day was the match for the Hilton odd years ago by the late Henry Hilton.

For a number of years this match was shot at Creedmoor, but it was transferred to Sea Girt five or six years ago, and now forms part of the programme of the New Jersey State Rife. Association. When the match was started a light wind was blowing from the south, and during no

Further the Scheme of a Bridge Path! The L. A. W. to Have the Last Say in the Matter of Local Racing After All. Although Consul Uhle, of the New York Division L. A. Bulletin, there is evidence that his idea of the contract having been broken is a sound one. In the last issue of the new magazine to which the Bulletin has been ackedon, appears the following, which, besides explaining what the new policy is to be, virtually admits the violation of the contract,

The following letter from a Brooklyn wheelman is one that shows the trend of sentiment regarding the Bridge path:

regarding the Bridge path:

To THE EDITOR OF THE SUN-Net: The cyclists of New York and Brooklyn—and they number tens of thousands—are daily feeling the pressine necessity of a cycle path over the Bridge. No expanse and no difficulty should be allowed to stand in the way of building such a path. Pedestrians, wagons, bridge cars and trolley cars are all secommodated, but a cyclist is practically denied the right to cross, except at the risk of his life, as witness the loss of two lives within a few months. It is folly to say such a path cannot be built, and Supt. Martin's objection of too much congestion on the New York aide seems pusrile. It is simply a right which cyclists claim and not a favor. They are too large and influential sclass to be beyordted. Let us have a path.

Chief Consul M. M. Belding of the L. A. W.

Chief Consul M. M. Belding of the L. A. W. in discussing the matter said he thought the Bridge authorities probably did not realize how much public sentiment there was back of the demand for a cycle path on the Bridge, because it is not only the wheel riders themselves who want it but the husbands and fathers and brothers of all who ride bicycles and who realize that those near to them risk their lives in crossing the structure under the present conditions. Although it looks as if the cyclists have at present rather the short end of it, there seems to be no disposition to how meekly to the engineer's report on the matter.
